A Report on
Advanced and Slow Learners
Academic Year: 2020-2021

The Geography Department organized a special online lectures for both advanced learners and slow learners during the academic year 2020-2021. This practice is initiated as a part of blended learning system for the students having different learning capabilities. Our department conducted lessons on Map Reading for slow learners. The question bank of the same was provided to the slow learners as well as advanced learners.

The assessment of learning levels of the students was done through the earlier year's result of the students. The students below 55% marks are identified as slow learners while the students having more than 70% marks are identified as an advanced learners. During lectures class tests and interactive sessions were conducted and through that students of caliber are identified. They were encouraged to strengthen their potential through academic and co-curricular activities. They are suggested advanced reading on the relevant topic to enhance their understanding of the topic. They are also encouraged to help and provide support to slow learners through group discussions.
